TAKE STEPS TO CUT POLITICS OUT OF DRAFT

Believed Conscription Will Be Handled by War Department at Washington

LOCAL BOARDS TO PASS ON EXEMPTIONS

Plenty of Time Will Be Given Drafted Men to Care for Their Affairs

Washington, June 23.—Regulations for drafting the new national army now awaiting President Wilson's approval contain provisions for every step in the great undertaking, except the actual method of the draft itself.

Drafting in Washington. No official announcement has been made, but it has been stated and generally is accepted here as true that the federal government itself will do the drafting, probably here in Washington, so there will be no opportunity for local favorites, political or otherwise.

As the regulation stands now, every registered man bears a number. The numbers will be forwarded to Washington, and drawing will be entirely by number. The identity of the numbered men will be unknown to those in charge of the draft machinery, and can be ascertained only by comparing a number with a printed list of the man's home district.

As the numbers are drawn, they will be telegraphed to the home district where the registered men will learn if they have been drafted.

The question of exemption will come up and this will go before the local board. If a man is exempted the man bearing the number which was drawn next in order will take his place, and so on.

In this way, all those available for service out of the ten million who registered will be made ready for the country's call and from them the first increment of 625,000 will be assembled. The others will be called as the needs develop as the war goes on. Plenty of time will be given for drafted men to arrange their personal affairs, and report to their cantonments. It is hoped to have all in training by Sept. 1, or soon thereafter.

How I Solved the Ruth Cruger Mystery

Mrs. Grace Humiston, who uncovered the Ruth Cruger mystery, and (below) Alfredo Cocchi, held in Italy for the girl's murder.

Story of Woman Detective

Cocchi Admits Murdering Girl Who Spurned Him

(By Associated Press.) Bologna, Italy, June 23.—Alfredo Cocchi, the fugitive New York motorcycle dealer, abandoned today his pretense of innocence of the murder of Ruth Cruger and confessed his guilt. Jealousy was his motive. He was unable, he declared, to win her love and became furious when she refused his persistent attentions.

The admissions of the young Italian, whose escape the New York police failed to prevent, were made in tears, after searching interrogation by Judge Zucconi broke down Cocchi's reserve. Prior to this examination, Cocchi had coolly and insistently maintained he had known Miss Cruger only two days before her disappearance in February, when she went to his shop to have her skates sharpened, and declared his conduct was entirely correct.

Under Judge Zucconi's searching questioning today Cocchi finally burst into tears. He became so agitated as his confession fell from his lips that the persons surrounding him believed he was about to have an epileptic fit.

He was granted time to recover and then resumed the story of how the 18-year-old girl met her death at his hands in the building where her body was recently unearthed from the cellar.

After making up his mind to tell the truth, Cocchi talked freely and without reserve, and gave full details of his crime. When his confession had been completed, the judge directed the clerk to read to Cocchi the written report of his confession. He said it was correct and later signed it.

On the return to his cell, Cocchi said to attendants: "At last I feel relieved. I have freed myself from a nightmare which has tortured my conscience. Now I have told everything. I am ready to suffer anything."

By FREDERICK M. KERBY.

New York, June 23.—Why did Mrs. Grace Humiston, American woman Sherlock Holmes, solve the great Ruth Cruger murder mystery when New York's most famous sleuths failed?

Because she believed in the innate goodness of girl nature, as opposed to the police theory that most girls who leave home are bad.

When little eighteen-year-old Ruth Cruger disappeared early in February, after going to the motorcycle repair shop of Alfredo Cocchi on West 127th street to get her skates sharpened, the New York detective bureau made a perfunctory investigation, winked its cynical eye and said, "Another girl gone wrong!"

But when the distracted parents of Ruth Cruger called Mrs. Grace Humiston into the case, she decided almost at once the police were wrong.

"Ruth was a good girl, I soon found out from her school girl friends," said Mrs. Humiston today.

Mrs. Humiston looks anything but the conventional woman lawyer type. Of medium build, with dark hair, tinged with gray, and brown eyes, quietly dressed in a dark purple gown, Mrs. Humiston is just the kind of woman woman on whom a distracted mother might call for help to find her lost girl.

"In the first place," she said, "there were just four persons working on the case, my secretary, two private detectives and myself. We had utmost confidence in one another. My first inquiries convinced me Ruth had not run away; I felt sure she was a good girl and Cocchi could solve the mystery."

"We eliminated every clue that led outside New York city. I searched morgues, cemeteries and hospitals. I became convinced the girl had been murdered and Cocchi could solve the mystery. We investigated the cellar and found the police search of the place had been superficial."

"When Cocchi was discovered in Italy, I felt my murder theory was right. It became necessary to make a thorough search of the cellar under his workshop. We began that work but were stopped by Mrs. Cocchi. I went to the police and obtained authority to continue the excavation that resulted in finding the body."

Back of this simple story is Mrs. Humiston's genius for detective work. She has, through her law practice, an intimate acquaintance with the psychology of the criminal mind. She has a woman's intuition and insight into the working of the human mind. Above all, she feels she knows ninety-nine girls in every hundred are inherently good and pure.

Mrs. Humiston declared in her three months' investigation she discovered 2 cellars where girls were made victims of men.

"New York does not know how systematized the danger is for the girls of our city," she says. "Girls disappear in this city and a too-ready public instantly says at least the girl was half as much to blame as the man. But I can tell you otherwise."

In one year, 325 persons disappeared from the streets of the big city and were never heard from again. In three of its five boroughs, 244 murders occurred and many remain unsolved.

These conditions indicate either that New York is the most criminal city in the world, or the police force is inefficient. Mrs. Humiston's revelations of the inactivity of the police in the Ruth Cruger case have again aroused the suspicion that they are still protecting criminals instead of the public.

"I found myself blocked by some mysterious person at every step," said Mrs. Humiston, in discussing her difficulties in tracing Ruth Cruger against the apparent will of the police.

Mrs. Humiston has done remarkable work as a lawyer. She saved Charles P. Stielow from the electric chair three times. She helped prosecute the peonage cases in the southern turpentine swamps in 1908 and 1909. Her maiden name was Mary Grace Winterton, and she is a member of an old New York family. In 1905 she founded the People's Law Firm, where poor people could secure expert legal aid for a small sum.

HEAVY ATTACKS ALONG AISNE BY CROWN PRINCE

No Substantial Results Attend Terrific Drive of Teutonic Forces

GERMAN MOVE IS TO FORESTALL OFFENSIVE

General Petain So Far As Appears Has Lost No Ground

(B Associated Press.) Heavy attacks by the Germans are continuing along the Aisne front, while the fighting at times assumes almost the proportions of a general engagement.

No substantial results have attended the crown prince's efforts. The latest bulletins from the front, indeed, indicating the fighting to be turning more favorably for the French, whose artillery is proving that it has lost none of its effectiveness in breaking up attacks.

Crown Prince's Purpose. The crown prince's primary purpose, apparently, is to forestall the renewal of the French offensive movement, which was expected in this important sector, southwest and south of the fortress of Laon, the German key position, which would be seriously menaced by any further French advance.

So far as appears, General Petain has lost none of his commanding positions, while the Germans have sacrificed heavily for such small gains as they have been able to effect.

The plan of the Germans seems to be to launch heavy forces on comparatively narrow front in the area under attack.

The Berlin reports say the German gains southeast of Flandre included territory on a point of one and one-half kilometers, 500 meters in depth. Three hundred prisoners were taken.

5.50 INCHES OF RAIN FALLS IN MILWAUKEE

Greatest and Most Intense in History of City Causes Near Flood

Milwaukee, Wis., June 23.—The greatest and most intense rainfall in Milwaukee in the history of the local weather bureau was experienced early today as 5.50 inches fell, according to the weather bureau, resulting in the flooding of many low-lying parts of the city.

All of the steam road traffic in the Menominee valley has been suspended, and all the manufacturing plants in that section of the city have been compelled to shut down.

Eight square blocks of residences in Bay View, a suburb of Milwaukee, were flooded with water, the occupants in that section being compelled to seek shelter elsewhere.

Today's storm was quite general throughout the state, but outside of Milwaukee was not unusually heavy. The Menominee river, running through a western suburb of Milwaukee, rose 1.5 feet.

Street cars doing cross-town service over viaducts in the flooded district, were re-routed on account of possible danger from the weakening of the structures by the flood.

Slav Anarchists Try To Seize Country Home of Nobility

Petrograd, June 23.—A group of anarchists having recently seized the country house of General Durnovo, in a suburb of Viborg, the minister of justice today ordered its evacuation. In opposition to the order, thousands of workmen from half a dozen adjacent factories surrounded the house, many of them armed with rifles, and declared they would defend the anarchists against the government if force were employed to oust the occupants of the buildings.

Provisional government officials warned the anarchists that arms would be invoked unless the anarchists obeyed the order.

1000 KILLED OR WOUNDED WHEN AUSTRIAN MUNITION PLANT IS WRECKED BY EXPLOSION

Amsterdam, June 23.—More than 1,000 persons were killed or injured or are missing in consequence of an explosion in munitions factories at Bloeweg according to an announcement made in the lower house of the Austrian parliament by the minister of defense as forwarded in a dispatch from Vienna.

Nation Wide Drive for 70,000 Men

President Wilson Wants Regular Army and Militia Recruited to War Strength

ISSUES APPEAL FOR MEN BETWEEN AGES 18 AND 40

Washington, June 23.—A nationwide drive of one week, to recruit 70,000 men, to bring the regular army up to authorized war strength of 500,000 men, began today, in accordance with President Wilson's proclamation calling for volunteers. This is the first step in the war organization of America's war army. Next is the task of completing the full strength of the national guard. Then comes the selection of men for the new national army from the millions who registered June 5.

Men Between 18 and 40. The president calls for "unmarried men between the ages of 18 and 40 years, who have no dependents and who are not engaged in pursuits vitally necessary to the prosecution of the war."

The urgency of filling the ranks of the regular army is emphasized by army officers, who declare it will be necessary within the next six months to take many of the regulars as instructors for the new selective army. It is planned to incorporate them in the new regiments of the regular army portions already established as trained units as a framework to insure rapid development.

The recruiting officers throughout the country will have the assistance of the press, the state defense councils, and patriotic societies in the effort to bring 70,000 men to the colors within a week.

American Freighter Fights Off Submarine

An Atlantic Port, June 23.—A fight between an American freighter and a German submarine, which took place June 1, one day out from Genoa, Italy, and resulted in the navy gunners on the merican vessel scoring at least one hit was reported today by the captain of the steamer.

The captain said the U-boat suddenly appeared at 500 yards, and launched a torpedo. Its wake was clearly discernible, and it was possible to maneuver the vessel so that it missed the ship by 20 feet. Fire was opened on the U-boat from a stern gun and four shots were discharged as the submarine submerged.

The second shot the captain said struck the periscope, throwing it high into the air and the last shot fired hit the water on the exact spot where the U-boat disappeared. The American vessel was not damaged.

This is the second encounter reported within two days in which an American ship successfully defended itself against a submarine attack.

MASONS INVITE FRIENDS TO AID IN CELEBRATION

200th Anniversary of Modern Masonry Will Be Observed at Temple Tomorrow

INTERESTING PROGRAM PLANNED FOR OCCASION

Bismarck Masons Invite their friends as well as all resident and visiting members of the craft, with their families to join them tomorrow in an impressive observance of 200 years of modern Masonry. An interesting program has been arranged for the celebration, which will open at the Masonic temple on Third street at 3.30 Sunday afternoon.

The event is to be held in honor of the 200th anniversary of the founding of the first Masonic grand lodge. The origin of Masonry is so mixed with fancy and fable that it is difficult to place one's finger on a given date in history and say that Masonry came into being at that time. Bands of skilled laborers, conscious of the protection of those desiring their services, formed themselves into societies in the early dawn of civilization and gradually developed their rites and ceremonies, their signs and passwords. In order that only qualified workers might become members and share in the protection afforded and have a right to the social seasons which exclusive fellowship demanded. These bodies were found in Great Britain and on the continent of Europe. From these the present system of Freemasonry has evolved. The bands of operative Masons have given way to bands of speculative Masons. The palaces, towers, abbeys and cathedrals were erected by operative Masons. Today, the speculative Mason is engaged in building another temple, a temple not to be destroyed by shot or shell or the ravages of time.

11,000 in North Dakota. There are about 11,000 Masons in North Dakota. At the recent grand lodge meeting in Grand Forks, in addition to appropriating $100,000 to the army and navy, M. C. A. and $1,000 to the Red Cross, that governing body voted to assess every member in North Dakota $1 in preparation for the demands of the future. The 120 lodges in the state have year in and year out quietly contributed their share to the present pressing needs of humanity.

Tomorrow's program will reveal to the layman much that the Masonic

GRACE LUSK WANTS DEATH AS PENALTY

Waukesha, Wis., June 23.—Under the influence of sedatives, made necessary by her overwrought nerves, Miss Grace Lusk, slayer of Mrs. David Roberts, obtained some sleep last night, and fears of recovery, which were felt for a time yesterday, were today practically removed.

The great handicap to the work of the physicians is the patient's apparent preference for death.

"I want to die. There can be no mental or spiritual life, so why the physical?" she murmured.

Mrs. Roberts' funeral will be held this afternoon. It rained all night and preparations for the obsequies were concluded today in the drizzle. Curious crowds continued to haunt the vicinity of the house, despite the weather.

Dr. Roberts, the 55-year-old veteran, for love of whom Miss Lusk quarreled with Mrs. Roberts, continued to maintain silence today as to the cause for the tragedy and for the infatuation which led to it.

MCKENZIE ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT BURNS

McKenzie, N. D., June 23.—The McKenzie electric light plant was completely destroyed by a night fire this week. Prompt and efficient help saved the more expensive equipment and tools, and the loss will not exceed $100, on which there was no protection.

SOUTH DAKOTA UNION

Plans Made by Old Boys to Erect Fine Home at the U. Vermillion, S. D., June 23.—A Dakota Union building to cost $50,000 financed by alumni of the University of South Dakota will grace the campus here if a committee named by State Senator Carl Gustafson of Clay county, class of '90, succeeds in working out plans suggested at the annual alumni meeting. The Dakota Union is suggested as headquarters for the "old boys" when they come back for commencement or football or baseball or any other stunt.

LEAGUE GIVES TRACK BUYERS A CLEAR FIELD

Another Pleasing Feature of Czar Townley's Grain Grading Bill Crops Out

NO WEIGHTS GRADES NOR INSPECTION FOR ROVERS

North Dakota's new grain grading act, which becomes effective next week, from next Monday, exempts track buyers from the one rule which farmers and grain men alike have protested against—the truck buyer. The statute provides that it shall be unlawful for any person operating a public warehouse to purchase weight grade or inspect grain or seed who is not licensed as deputy inspector provided that any person without a license may buy any article that has been graded weighed and inspected by a deputy state inspector of grades, weights and measures, but it does not place a single restriction on the track buyer the free lance without local elevator warehouse or other obligation who drifts in buys at any price which he can induce the farmer to accept and drifts out again, perhaps never to return.

Provisions Ambiguous
Where a state deputy is established it is made his duty to accurately sample and grade carload shipments destined for some central market either within or without the state and to make and attach a signed inspection certificate to a sealed package containing the sample and forward the same to a deputy in charge of said central market. But it does not make the duty of the track buyer to submit to such inspection, nor in probably any town in North Dakota during the present year will there in any probability be a deputy state inspector or to make the inspection. State deputies are appointed only when a town supplies at its own expense a public scales and scales house. Reports to the railway commission do not indicate that any town to date has taken such steps and Dr. E. F. Ladd, president of the agricultural commission and state inspector of grades, weights and measures, himself stated at the recent meeting of the railway commission that he did not anticipate the appointment of many state deputies this season.

This will mean that, while the state has a hold on the line independent and farm elevators, which are already under bond the track buyer remains the same carefree devil he always has been making his own inspection, grades and prices without let or hindrance. The advance under the new grain grading bill is claimed by grain men to be all on the side of the track buyer, a situation which is as little relieved by the farmer as by the elevator man.

Bad Boy Bandits Detected in Act Of Robbing Cross

Two bad boy bandits who depleted a Red Cross kettle as rapidly as its contents could be replenished by liberal passersby, were caught red handed yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Welch, marched to the county building, given a good lecture and released. The deputy was standing in the window of the national bank when he observed a rowdy on the opposite side of the street wig-wagging signals to a companion on the bank corner. The latter immediately dived into the Red Cross kettle and thrust a handful of small coins into his pocket. Again when the way was clear the maneuver was repeated. Then the officer gathered the boys in. They had garnered $25 in all and after a fatherly talking to them appreciated the benevolence of their crime and promised to be good.

ROBBERY MADE MOTIVE BY DUNN MURDER DEFENSE

St. Paul, Minn., June 23—S. C. Ferdig of Montana, testifying in the trial of Frank J. Dunn, charged with the murder of his wife, said that Dunn told him that he wanted his wife out of the way and that at one time, he, Dunn, had attempted to accomplish her death by flooding the house with gas, but that his wife awoke before he succeeded in liberating enough gas.

KILLING INCIDENT TO JEWELRY QUEST CLAIM

SAYS DUNN TOLD OF HIS OWN ATTEMPT TO KILL WIFE WITH GAS

St. Paul, Minn., June 23—S. C. Ferdig of Montana, testifying in the trial of Frank J. Dunn, charged with the murder of his wife, said that Dunn told him that he wanted his wife out of the way and that at one time, he, Dunn, had attempted to accomplish her death by flooding the house with gas, but that his wife awoke before he succeeded in liberating enough gas.

Ferdig related the early plot for the killing of Mrs. Dunn which, he said, was outlined to him by Dunn in Montana in 1915. He said he allowed Dunn to believe that he would carry out the plan for the purpose of obtaining money from him, but declared he never had any intention of killing the woman.

The plot for the murder of Mrs. Dunn, as related by Ferdig, was at most identical with that of the Redenbaugh gang before and after the shooting of the woman. Dunn however when dealing with Ferdig and Al Brown did not use a "go between," but laid the plan before the men himself when he visited them in Montana.

D. W. Lawler senior counsel for Frank J. Dunn is bending his energies toward discrediting the state's star witnesses to show that Redenbaugh committed the murder as an incident of an attempt to rob Mrs. Dunn, and, to that end to demonstrate the connection of Dunn is a frame-up of the police and county attorney with the Redenbaugh gang.

Robert E. Hickey pal of Redenbaugh, identified Dunn as the man who sent him and Redenbaugh $500 earnest money on the proposition of having Mrs. Dunn "bumped off," which he said "is a polite term amongst gunmen for murder."

Redenbaugh finished his testimony late yesterday afternoon, after having been on the stand constantly for nearly two days.

One of the largest crowds of the trial fought with bailiffs and deputies for admission to the court room yesterday afternoon and most of them were ordered out of the building.

TOWNLEY USES GERMAN WHEN HE CAN'T ENGLISH

Czar Reverting to Tongue of His Beloved Kaiser for Spreading of Gospel

MORE THAN HALF LEAGUE MEETINGS TO BE HELD IN TOWN

A C. Townley, president of the Nonpartisan league is putting into German that which his experience on the Slope convinced him dare not be stated in English. The first of Townley's purely pro-German meeting, addressed by German speakers, was held at Glencoe, Minn. on Thursday. In speaking of the session the St. Paul Pioneer Press says:

When Ernest Meitzen, Nonpartisan league organizer, mounted the platform at the Glencoe meeting yesterday afternoon and began to address the gathering in the German tongue, the eyes of many of the large audience turned somewhat sympathetically to Miss Lola Hennon, stenographer in the offices of Charles Marsh, member of the state safety commission. She proved equal to the occasion, however, and transcribed the entire speech in German.

More Than Half German.

More than half of the new series of league meetings which Townley has scheduled for North Dakota beginning next Monday, will be addressed in German.

It is proposed that steps similar to those taken by the safety commission in Minnesota be adopted by North Dakota and that an expert stenographer be appointed to attend every word that is said in both English and German. Loyal German citizens look askance upon Townley's adoption of their mother tongue for the spreading of his doctrine of hate. They feel that it puts their people who are loyal to America in a false position.

Conservative, patriotic Germans are counseling their fellow-countrymen to express their disapproval by absenting themselves from the Townley meetings and to do nothing which may cast a shadow upon their loyalty or indicate that they are lined up with Townley and his socialist crew against the government in this great crisis.

AFTERMATH OF TOWNLEY MEETINGS IN SEDITION

Minot, N. D., June 23—An aftermath of the Townley meetings in Minot and Williston is hinted at in the arrest of Frank Kaser and Albert Anderson, socialist admirers of Townley, charged with threatening to kill the president. Both socialists, who are residents of Humboldt, were arrested by United States Marshal Baker, on warrants sworn out by United States District Attorney Hildreth of Fargo. They were arraigned last evening before R. E. Hopkins deputy clerk of the United States district court, and were bound over to district court, July 5, under bonds of $1,500 each.

The marshal went to Anderson's farm and accused him. Anderson had a peculiar idea that he could not be arrested on his own property but after considerable discussion he was persuaded to come to Minot.

Ray Holds Double Funeral Today for Young Men Who Perished in Reservoir

Ray, N. D., June 23—Irwin Overmyer and Joseph C. Pinney prominent young men of Ray, met their death in the Great Northern reservoir here. With a number of other young men, they were engaged in seeking a seine for fish. Overmyer sought to swim across the 150 foot channel to fasten the net on the opposite side. He was about halfway across when the slackening of the net advised his friends on shore that something was wrong. Pinney, stripping off his coat, plunged in to rescue his friend. He had attained a spot near that where Overmyer was last seen, when he went down.

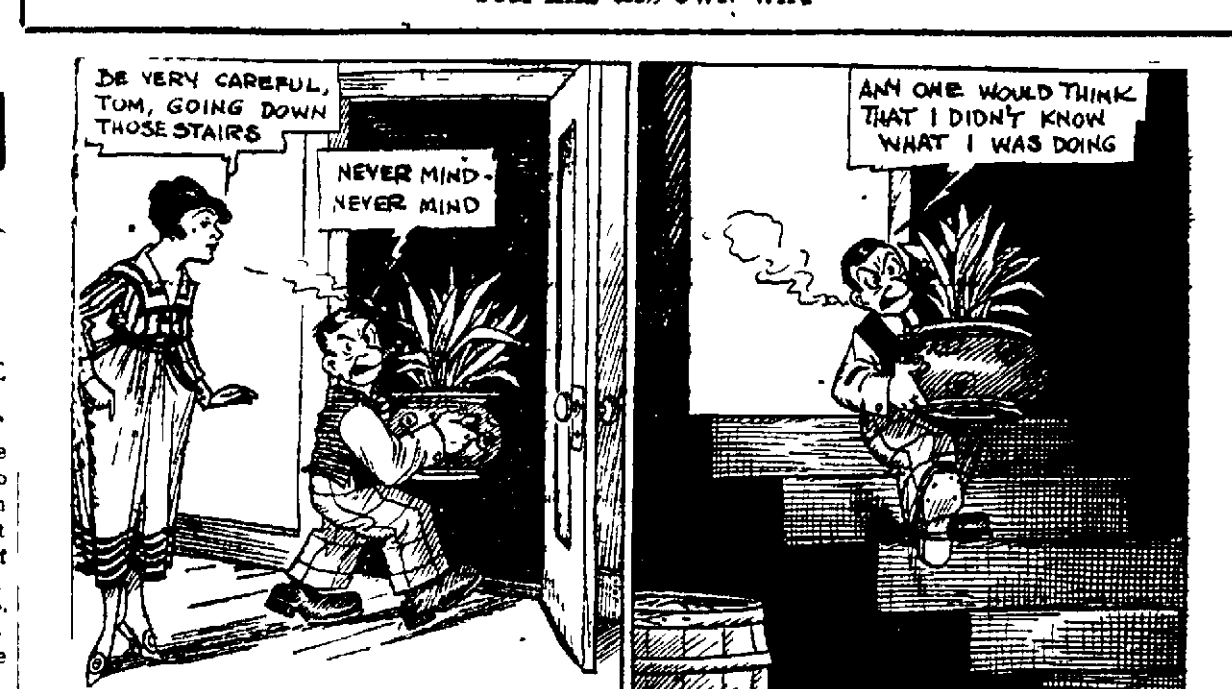

The tolling of the village fire bell brought a hundred men to the scene, a raft was made and the channel was dragged for the bodies, which were found after two hours' work. Lying side by side on the bottom. Overmyer's parents reside at Culver, Ind., whence the deceased came 13 years ago to file on a claim. Pinney is survived by a widow and young son residing here. Joint funeral services attended by the entire population of Ray were held at 2:00 this afternoon.

Why Not?
Then came McCarthy's turn and he spoke as follows: "We have a fine church. Our pews are comfortable and our altar is grand. 'Tis true we have no bell. But 'tis true we have steam heat in the church and plenty of coal in the cellar. The devil will tell the bell. Let's put a whistle on the church."

Dickinson Showing Knives of Fourth Estate How Old Country Does It

Dickinson, N. D., June 23—North Dakota's members of the fourth estate, 200 strong, own Dickinson. They all belong to the North Dakota Press association and represent the journalism fraternity of the state—and Dickinson made extensive preparations so that they may not forget their visit here.

Business sessions were brief. Friday morning shortly after 10 o'clock, the convention gathered in the Elks' hall, where an address of welcome was given by Mayor Alfred White, followed by a response by J. H. McGarry of Alexander. Then followed the annual address of President G. A. Monteth of Finley. Harry M. Case of McVie then spoke on "How I Dislike My Work Through the Week," which was followed by a general discussion. One of the questions discussed Friday morning was the publishers' mutual insurance company. P. W. Cary being chairman of the committee appointed at the winter meeting in Bismarck to make a report at this session.

Friday afternoon's program was as follows: Paper, "Equipping a Country Print Shop" by George P. Collins (Carmichael). Discussion led by W. P. Thurston, Center. Round Table conducted by C. C. Lowe, Ahlsley. At 4:30 o'clock the members were taken for an automobile trip, followed later in the evening by a baseball game between the visiting journalists.

BABY GIRL HAD BREAKING OUT

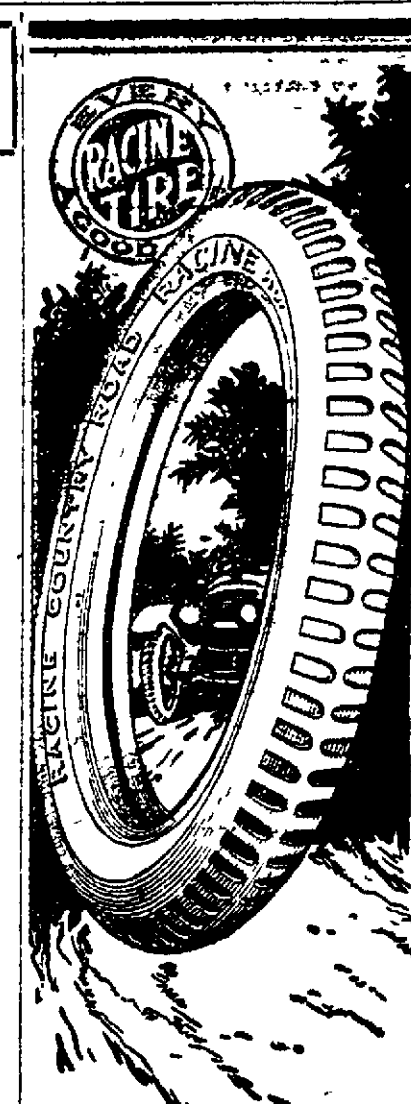

Red and Inflamed, Irritated Badly, Cuticura Healed.

"My baby girl had a breaking out on her face when she was one year old. It appeared in the form of blisters, and the skin was very red and inflamed. It itched and irritated her so badly that she was very fretful, and would scratch her face till it was covered with blood. It became so bad I had to keep mittens on her hands all the time, and her face was disfigured."

"I tried medicines without success. Then I procured Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they very soon healed her. Her face is now without scar or blemish." (Signed) Mrs. D. A. Stanger, Box 244 Blue Mound, Ill., Oct. 8, 1916.

It is easier to prevent skin troubles than to heal them. Clear the pores and keep them clear by using Cuticura Soap for every-day toilet purposes and touches of Ointment as needed.

PHOTOGRAPHS ARE SENT OVER WIRE

System First Invented by Indiana Man More Than 25 Years Ago.

EARLY MODELS ON DISPLAY

Uncle Sam Obtains Experimental Machines and Places Them on Exhibition in the Smithsonian Institution.

Probably many have wondered if one shall not eventually be able to see by wire. It is not such an absurd question, for we now transmit and receive sound and motion, via wire, sending even our voices and handwriting by the telephone and telegraph, says one of Uncle Sam's experts. So far, no one has perfected a method of transmitting vision, or enabling us to actually see objects out of sight, but there are several methods, which, though they do not enable us to observe an object some miles away, reproduce it mechanically as a picture, thus practically serving the same purpose. One of these systems, known as the photo-telegraph or the electro-antograph was invented by N. S. Amstutz of Valparaiso, Ind., over 25 years ago, and demonstrated both here and abroad. It reproduces photographs by wire.

The division of graphic arts of the United States National museum has lately come into possession of the early experimental machines, as well as some of the more perfect machines, deposited by the inventor. They are displayed in the exhibition hall of the Smithsonian building in connection with a series of original photographs and reproductions, transmitted considerable distances and engraved electrically for use as illustrations by this method of telegraphing photographs.

Develop Automatic Engraving.

Mr. Amstutz is a research engineer, who has spent many years in the study of engraving, and has developed the art of automatic engraving to a marked degree. He was not the first to make an electric engraving machine, but he improved the existing method by using an interrupted variable-strength current, where prior devices had employed an interrupted current of uniform strength for controlling the graver or recording device. Mr. Amstutz's machine produced half-tones, but the other early engraving machines made nothing but outline drawings.

His initial photo-telegraphic machine was built by adapting a synchronizing method to two local electric engraving machines, one employed as a transmitter and the other as a receiver.

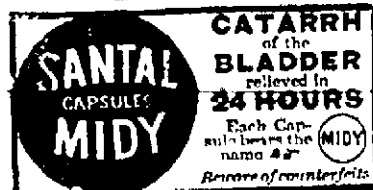

The first method employed by Mr. Amstutz, originally known as the electro-antograph, transmitted a relief photograph, made on a stripping film, composed of gelatin and bichromate of potassium, which when washed in lukewarm water left the parts affected by light in relief. The amount of relief was in direct proportion to the light which had acted on the gelatin, resulting in an irregular surface, representing in elevation all the variations of light and shade in the original picture. The film was then mounted on a true cylinder which revolved under a tracing point mounted on a traveling carriage. This point bears lightly on the gelatin print, rising and falling, like a phonograph needle, but according to the greater or less relief due to the degrees of light or shade, and by so doing varies to a corresponding degree the intensity of the electric current which actuates the receiving instrument, located perhaps miles away.

With one revolution of the cylinder only a single line is reproduced with the exact elevations and depressions of the profile of the original film picture, and to transmit the whole picture a series of these adjacent lines must be traced. This is accomplished by the traveling needle which actually traces a slow spiral around the revolving cylinder, eventually covering the whole picture. The successive laps of the line around the cylinder reproduce similar tracings at the other end of the circuit, including all the light and shade in the original.

Electric Magnet Makes Impression.

Mr. Amstutz's receiver is a similar machine, but, instead of a tracer, a graver is mounted on the traveling carriage, and this is depressed into the cylindrical receiving matrix of hard wax by an electric magnet whose strength varies in proportion to the current received over the line from the sending machine. When the sending tracer drops to a low level or rises to a high spot on the film, the engraving tool is depressed or elevated correspondingly and cuts a deep or shallow slot in the wax on the receiving cylinder. After the whole photo has been gone over, the wax, with its impressions, is taken off the receiving cylinder and rolled out flat. An electrotype is then made, and the telegraphed picture is then ready to be printed.

While experimenting in 1893, the inventor discovered that he could get even better results by using carbon relief prints on his sending machine reproducing them on celluloid, and this method superseded the gelatin and wax process.

CAPITAL CITY PLEDGES REACH OVER $16,000

Test at night. But their enthusiasm is unabated and they will keep the drive up for subscriptions.

Bismarck is better today for this expression of generosity. Its loyalty is well reflected in the response.

Remember the Kettles.

The Salvation Army kettles will remain on the street corners today and Monday. Transients or those who were not assessed and desire to contribute can use this medium.

Yesterday's total collected by teams amounted to $2,084, which, with $23, subscribed by the capital employees brought the total for the day up to more than $2,300. This makes the total subscriptions up to last night for the city, $16,186, with two more days to go. Doubtless Bismarck alone will subscribe nearly, if not more than, $20,000.

J. J. Ryan of Bismarck yesterday increased his donation from $50 to $100.

If you have not done your part do so today.

M'LEAN COUNTY WILL RAISE OVER TEN THOUSAND

Apportionment of $18,000 Announced So Late Little Work Could Be Done

(Tribune Special.)

Wilton, N. D., June 23.—Although the newly organized Wilton auxiliary was not advised of McLean county's allotment of $18,000 for the war Red Cross fund until Thursday, diligent campaigning prosecuted by the local organization through its chairman, Mrs. R. C. Thompson, and with H. W. Gray as general head of county work, will result in more than $10,000 having been raised before the three days' drive closes this evening.

Amounts certified to date are:

Underwood	$2,000
Turtle Lake	1,300
Garrison	1,200
Wilton	1,500
Washburn	1,400
Mercer	300
Russ	144
Total	$7,844

Mrs. Thompson announced at noon that Col. Harbor, Benedict and Max are still to be heard from, and that complete reports have not been received from some of the towns above listed. Immediately upon advice of their allotment Thursday morning the Wilton auxiliary, the only Red Cross organization formed to date in McLean county, immediately dispatched automobiles to the various towns in the county. Each town in turn pushed the campaign into surrounding territory, and Mrs. Thompson feels that in view of the short time allowed the results have been very satisfactory.

Enjoyed Arizona—C. M. Dahl, who spent the last winter in Phoenix, Ariz., was delighted with the southwest, but declared he was never so glad in all of his life to get back to Bismarck, after a six months absence. It was rather an exciting winter in Phoenix, with a battle on between two governors, each of whom reigned with his own special court. The climate during the winter was mild and invigorating, with only an occasional touch of rough weather. The homeward journey was made by way of Los Angeles, where the Dahls enjoyed a reunion with a large colony of former Bismarck folks, and two weeks were spent on the way.

TO TRAIN ARMY COOKS

A league to train army cooks has been organized by Miss Georgina Roberts and other prominent women. The league has established headquarters in New York city.

In addition to the ordinary kitchen equipment it is provided with a regulation army range and field outfit.

The league is prepared to give immediate instruction to men who wish to qualify as army cooks or to men or women desiring to become instructors of such cooks.

The lessons will be given from "Army Cooking Manual" by competent graduate teachers.

The photo shows Miss Georgina Roberts, who organized the league for the training of army cooks.

Experiment on Barley as Wheat Substitute

Madison, Wis.—Barley makes fine, barley bread, barley breakfast food and barley cakes may become as common on our tables as white bread, Graham muffins and oatmeal, according to the results of experiments now being carried on by the war research committee of the home economics department of the University of Wisconsin.

In seeking cereals to relieve the wheat shortage the department found that the food and commercial value of barley made it advisable to begin research along lines that would conserve the barley industry of Wisconsin, while at the same time bringing about economical results for the housewife.

Wisconsin, according to recent statistics, produces one-eighth of the barley crop in the United States.

TRAVELS FAR TO HIS DEATH

German Deserter Is Shot Down by Landsturm After Making Hazardous Trip.

Berlin.—After a desperate fight from the battle front, Adolph Ruzmann, a nineteen-year-old soldier, who was sent to the trenches a few months ago, has been killed near Neustadt, Holstein, by the bullet of a land-sturm.

The young man, who had been an inmate of a reformatory before he was drafted for the army, tried to desert two days after his arrival at the front in France, but was quickly recaptured and sent to outer trenches as a punishment.

After spending three weeks under the fire of the French guns he deserted again. Armed with two army revolvers, he sneaked away from the front and tried to reach Holland through Belgium. When he found this impossible he attempted to get to Denmark.

Walking at night and begging his food at isolated farm houses, the deserter got to Holstein, but in Neustadt he was caught. On the way to Eutin, where he was to be locked up, he jumped from the train and made for a nearby forest. The two land-sturm men who were guarding him fired at him from the swiftly moving train and killed him.

ONE MENACE REMOVED

One of the most effective weapons in the war, but one which has had but small notice, is the ship that scours the seas for the death engines that lurk everywhere waiting for unsuspecting merchantmen. This is a good view of a mine just taken aboard a sweeper. Great Britain's fleet of sweepers have been very successful in destroying the enormous fields planted in the North sea by the Germans.

BREAD AS AN ECONOMY FOOD

Would Be Used in Place of More Expensive Substances If It Were Baked Well in Home.

If home-baked bread were uniformly well made it would be used more extensively than at present in place of more expensive foods, say specialists in Uncle Sam's department of agriculture, and this would be a distinct economy. From the standpoint of nutrition it makes very little difference whether breadstuffs are served in the form of bread or in the form of breakfast cereals, side dishes with meat, or desserts.

A man engaged in moderate muscular work can probably consume about three-fourths of a pound a day of breadstuffs in any one of these forms. This quantity is the equivalent of one pound of baked bread. As a matter of fact, however, it is not probable that in the average family this quantity is consumed and the deficiency is made up by the use of more expensive substances. Of course, bread alone is not sufficient for the maintenance of health, but from both an economical and a hygienic point of view should be used more extensively than it usually is, the experts say.

Practical Conservation.

Many persons eat too much, say the diet specialists—here's a way to conserve our food supply and health at the same time—stuffed oneself at the table should be a dying tradition.

The City and the Farm.

Fifty years ago two-thirds of all Americans lived on farms. Yet every year life on the farm grows easier and every year it grows harder in the city.

EAT WILD MUSTANG'S FLESH

Jackass, Mule, Donkey, Burro and Horse Meat May Now Be Sold in Portland.

Portland, Ore.—Jackass, mule, donkey, burro and horse meat may now be sold in Portland meat markets. The city council has adopted an ordinance providing for the inspection of these meats and for the regulation of their sale.

The meat must be plainly labeled with letters at least one inch high and must be inspected by the regular meat inspectors of the city.

As adopted the ordinance says Dobbin and Billy and Maud, before being sold to the housewife, must undergo thorough inspection and be labeled "horse," "mule," "goat" or "jackass," as the case may be.

The first horse-meat market has been opened and the first shipment of 22 wild-range mustangs, rounded up by Indians in eastern Oregon, has been received, with more to follow if the demand is sufficient. The butcher says he is able to cut meat prices in two and his quotations for horse flesh range from 4 cents a pound for soup cuts to 20 1/2 cents for T-bone steaks.

PAINT TO DEADEN TORPEDOES

St. Louis Inventor Claims to Have Perfected Composition Which Makes Submarine Harmless.

St. Louis, Mo.—A paint against which torpedoes fired by a submarine or other warships will not explode is said to have been invented by a St. Louis man, whose name is withheld. This paint, the inventor claims, will make ships invulnerable to submarines.

In a test on a nearby lake a miniature torpedo, a foot long, was fired forty times into the preparation. It is said, and failed to explode.

The preparation's composition is a secret. When a soft-nosed torpedo strikes this coating, it is said to deaden the chemicals in head of the torpedo. The chemicals in the head of the torpedo send electric currents along wires in the center of the torpedo, which ignite the explosives in the rear. If the chemicals in the head are deadened the torpedo fails to explode.

The inventor, through his attorneys will bring the patent to the attention of the navy department at Washington.

Aids Purchase of Tractors.

The Italian ministry of agriculture has issued a notice fixing rules whereby agricultural bodies and societies in Italy may obtain a government contribution toward the cost of acquiring tractors for mechanical plowing, says a consular agent of Uncle Sam. The grant will be conceded to these bodies up to 30 per cent of the total cost, and, the Board of Trade Journal states, this figure may be increased to 40 per cent in the event of not less than five tractors being employed in any one province. In the case of private persons the grant will not exceed 20 per cent.

FOLEY'S HOME COMING PROVES PLEASING EVENT

The homecoming of North Dakota's poet laureate proved a delightful event at the Auditorium last evening. The reception would have been more general but for lowering skies and the threat of a storm, which developed just as the people were planning to leave for the theatre.

The poet, who will ever be Jimmy Foley to the hundreds of friends whom he made in Bismarck during his many years' residence here, made an excellent impression the moment he stepped out to the footlights. In an easy, confidential vein, he talked to his audience of early days in North Dakota, and of the war and of things in general, and stray bits of poetry and sketches were introduced so smoothly that the audience did not always know when extemporaneous monologue left off and the set part of the program began.

Heartily applause greeted each separate number, and although the poet talked for an hour, no one was ready to say good-bye when he bowed himself from the stage. His selections were humorous, witty and inspirational. A majority of them conveyed a real message and left something for his hearers to take home with them. Foley as an entertainer ranks with any platform artist who has ever appeared at the Auditorium, and the evening, even though the audience was not so large as the excellence of the program merited, was a complete success from an artistic standpoint.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION LOOMS UP AS POSSIBILITY

Washington, June 23.—Prohibition as a war measure looms up as the big issue in the house today with a sharp fight promised before a final vote on the food control bill, which is expected by tonight.

The contest was centered on whether the section of the bill authorizing the president to limit or regulate the supply of food materials used in making alcoholic liquors shall be changed. Most of the drys favor absolute prohibition of the use of grain for beverage purposes during the war, but are divided over the method of doing this.

The ambassador's declaration came at the end of the most remarkable and dem-

He Offered to Cut Out Middle Man; Got Cash

Widrose, N. D., June 23.—O. S. Losselyoung, an alleged representative of the Consumers' Service & Supply Co., arrested in 1915 on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses while representing to farmers that his company would eliminate the despised middleman and place them in direct communication with wholesalers and manufacturers, was found guilty in district court at Crosby after an 18-months' legal battle. Losselyoung accepted for the services of his company $150 per capita from a number of the most prominent farmers in this section.

ONLY LINE OF ATTACK.

While it is the duty of the press of the state to criticize the demagogues now in control of the destinies of the Nonpartisan league, some constructive program must be proposed also.

It is the opinion of a considerable number of people in the state, business men as well as farmers, that there are abuses at the great terminal markets, but socialism such as practiced by Townley, Coates, Bowen and Brinton is not the panacea.

Farmers' organizations are necessary and no one is hostile to the league, merely to the socialistic program which Mr. Townley and Governor Frazier have mapped out.

Like the trained demagogues they are, Townley, Frazier, et al., try to stir up the farmers by telling them that all criticism urged against the league leaders is abuse of them because they are organized. The farmers of the state are too intelligent to be led into such an old trap.

But the farmers are going to ask this question: "If Townley, Frazier and the rest are not qualified leaders what have their critics to offer? What is their program?"

The question is a fair one. Unless the opponents of Townley and Frazier have a workable program and a platform fair to the interests of the farmers of the state, the league leaders will remain in the saddle. Criticism alone will not hoist them from their perch.

It is gratifying to note that the convention which nominated Burtuss as the Republican candidate for congress in the First district proposed something definite in urging federal inspection and control of the marketing of grain.

Townley and Frazier seek through House Bill 44 to foist on the state an expensive system of state owned utilities which, when built, will affect less the prices at terminal points than the North Dakota farmers' granaries do now.

The convention platform hits the nail on the head in this:

"We favor national legislation that will further the best interests of our state, and, to that end, we endorse legislation for national inspection and grading of grain, for the federalization of chambers of commerce and grain exchanges, preventing and prescribing penalties for extortionate profits exacted by dealers in food products, to prohibit speculation therein, and to render the producer a fair and legitimate return for his labor and investment."

Federal legislation is the only solution of the evils that surround and are attendant upon the marketing of the products of the soil. How evident this is must be apparent to the intelligent farmers of the state, when they realize the absolute failure of the league's grain inspection bill. This bill imposes additional burdens upon the farmers of the state without affording them any possible relief at Duluth, Minneapolis, Chicago or Buffalo, the great grain terminals of the world.

Townley, Frazier and the rest know that federal legislation will give the leaders of the league no plunder fund, no jobs, no political pork and no emoluments for the socialistic pack of henchmen at their backs.

The farmers of North Dakota are gradually learning that House Bill 44 was a mere ruse to rob the school fund and squander the millions held in trust for the present and future generations on wild dreams of socialism.

For weeks past, the official organs of the league have been printing stories relative to state owned utilities in Washington and Louisiana. Not a word as to the tax load. Not a word as to the bond issue. Louisiana bonded its state for millions to build its public enterprises. New Orleans is the second port of the United States and probably was warranted in building public docks, cotton warehouses and grain elevators, but what justification is there for a bond issue of ten million or more to build elevators in a state without a terminal market except that Townley sees visions of pork and political prestige at the expense of the tax payer.

The farmers had better support Burtuss, with his program of federal legislation as against Baer and state ownership. One is workable, while the other is doomed to disastrous failure.

North Dakota has more storage than it needs at present. The farmers do not need more laws, but they need better equipped and more modern elevators. This can be achieved by the application of better business methods and the installation of modern machinery in present elevators. Additional laws on the statute books of North Dakota will not affect the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce any more than a flea bite excites an elephant, but socialistic laws on the statute books of North Dakota mean fresh plunder for Mr. Townley.

Take your choice, Mr. Farmer, federal legislation to correct marketing evils with the prospect of results, or Baer's program of state ownership and increased taxes.

Townley's first grain inspection bill placed a tax load of $500,000 on your backs and at the same time relieved the track buyer of the Chamber of Commerce from any supervision.

Must you have millions more in high taxes assessed against your farms and buildings to wake up to what the socialistic plans of Townley really mean?

Wake up and ask your neighbors if they have read Townley's grain grading act.

You bet the Chamber of Commerce has, and is laughing at the way Townley and Coates fooled you last winter.

Don't wait until a house falls in on you.

The Tribune does not want you to take its unsupported word.

Ask your elevator man.

Townley, et al., are typical of what Roosevelt once referred to as "the lunatic fringe of reform."

WHY GIRLS GO WRONG.

Of course, it's a very old question—and some people despair of ever finding the answer.

When Ruth Cruger disappeared in New York the police, hardened to crime, concluded Ruth was a bad girl and didn't trouble themselves over much about what happened to her.

A woman lawyer concluded Ruth was a good girl and looked for the tracks of a man in the case. She suddenly gave the police a very stunning surprise.

Grace Humiston believes most girls are inherently good. So they are. And so are most men. Most human beings are inherently good.

But a great many persons get into surroundings in which it is very difficult to be good and they are switched from the paths of virtue and honesty and decency.

Most cases of humanity gone wrong lead back to some kind of sudden surroundings, back to ignorance and bad influences.

Every Ruth Cruger case is a red-hot argument for striking back at conditions that tempt people to go wrong—or drive them to.

Education is one of the most powerful weapons against wrong-doing. Most crimes against the person are committed by the ignorant, by the desperate, or by mental weaklings.

Fill the human mind with knowledge, give the human body enough good food and pure air and sunlight and you drive a mighty force for decency into the stronghold of crime.

SHUT UP OR BE LOCKED UP.

We Americans are extremely jealous of our rights. Among them we hold none more precious than free speech and a free press. In most of our cities we have permitted such freedom of speech that we have permitted, with good-natured tolerance, the free utterance of the ravings of disordered minds.

In some cities certain places have been set apart in public squares where anyone might freely rail against government and established institutions, and say most anything he pleased.

Even the steps of government buildings have been favorite rostrums, wherefrom wild-eyed fanatics might talk themselves black in the face against the government itself.

So long as it kept clear of libel laws the press might go as far as the editor pleased to go with his thunderbolts against anything and anybody. And a good-natured public found no fault.

But that was in times of peace. Now we are at war. The government represents the people, the citizenship of this democratic republic. The government declared war and the people approved its action as their will. That settles it.

Frenzied attacks on our government now are attacks on the people. Appeals to any of our citizens to rebel against any of the laws passed by congress to carry out the purposes of our war, are attacks on our government.

Whatever lends aid and comfort to the enemy is treason—and attacks on our government and appeals for resistance to its laws lend aid and comfort to the enemy. Hence they are treasonable.

The time has come for treasonable editors and orators to shut up or be locked up.

Goldman and Berkman are locked up. They're in jail. That's where they belong. Neither is a citizen of this republic, yet both have been permitted to roam whithersoever they pleased within our borders and give voice to their hatred of this government and all government. It was time to lock them up. And it's time to go right down the line and lock up others who use their liberty in free America to lend aid and comfort to the Prussian enemy of democracy and civilization.

And this goes for editors, as well as orators.

GOOD-BYE, OLD DAYS.

When we went into the big war we said farewell to the old days of peace and ease.

We went into a job of hard work. It was curtains and dim lights for what had been.

We said good-bye to the old ways, too.

Many of us didn't suspect at the time that we were closing the book on things as they were. But we were.

We will have peace some day—peace with victory for democracy. But a lot of things we had in the peace left behind we will not have in the peace to come. And most of them we will not want.

We are going to do things more efficiently in the new peace. We are going to take better care of ourselves. And so, entirely aside from the great question of world democracy, we are going to have a better democracy among ourselves.

We are not going to stand for a lot of the robbery we used to put up with. We are going to regulate food administration for war purposes.

Today Uncle Sam is saying to producers of war commodities: So much shall you charge, and no more. Will Uncle Sam ever again stand for the good old scandals we used to read so much about?

And we are learning how to eat for the first time in our lives. We are learning to eat less and to count the cost of what we eat. The killing we get in proper eating during the war will stay with us. We will be a stronger race when peace comes.

War is going to purge our souls. War is going to clean us up. We have got to be 100 per cent fit in war. We shall remain 100 per cent in peace.

That will be one of the greatest of war's blessings. War is the great purifier in many ways. It is good to think about these blessings of the peace to come. It will help us through the trials of the war.

A Clean Victory

Saturday Evening Letter

By Justice J. E. Robinson

I think we need a Baer in congress.

Now it is said the United States supreme court has adjourned for the summer and much of the autumn, despite the fact that there are on the docket 532 cases. In not that awful!

It must be that the judges do not read our letters or the command, "Thou shalt not steal. When a person receives for work a thousand a month and fails to do the work, does he not steal one thousand, in it not grand larceny, is it not a just cause of shame and reproach? Why do not the lawyers of great corporations go fishing and leave their work undone for a year or more? They could not do it and hold their jobs; but under the laws the federal judges are appointed for life and the state judges are elected or appointed for a definite term of years, and they all work without any reporting or accounting and without any supervision or control. And in many cases they assume to be the lords and masters of the people and do just as they please. The question is, what are you going to do about it? There is nothing to do only to change the laws or the public sentiment so that derelicts may feel the sting of public censure and reproach. The custom of appointing judges for life or for a long term of years is monarchical and is contrary to all business principles. The corporation lawyers are never hired in that way. No business concern ever hires a man or a set of men for life or a long term of years, or leaves its hired men to work without any supervision or reporting. If public business were done on business principles, the people would have more confidence in public ownership.

Here is my syllabus and decision in a Grand Forks tax case:

G. N. Railway company vs. County of Grand Forks.

In a statutory action where a party claims land under a tax sale the case presented is one of law and not of equity. When by the answer or the evidence an adverse claim of title is shown to be void, it is adjudged void as a matter of law. The remedy is assured by the constitutional guaranty of due process of law.

Robinson, J.: This is an action to determine adverse claims to real property. The complaint avers and shows that the plaintiffs have some title or interest in certain property in the city of Grand Forks, to-wit: A part of lot 7 in block 28, and a part of lots 9 and 11 in block 28, which parts are described by metes and bounds. It avers that the defendant claims some estate or interest in said property adverse to the plaintiffs.

The answer is in effect that for several specified years, the property was duly listed and assessed for taxation, and for such taxes the property was duly sold to Grand Forks county.

The county appeals from a judgment holding void the assessment, the taxes and the tax sales on the ground that the land description is fatally defective. In the assessment book for each year the description of one tract is:

Northeast 100 feet of lot 7 in block 28; name of owner, Nash Bros., or lot 7 in block 28; name of owner, Gt. Nor. R. Co.

The description of the other tract is: 3,800 square feet, original town, opposite block 27, city of Grand Forks; name of owner, Swift Co., or Gt. Nor. R. Co., lot 9, block 28.

There is a first and second description of each tract and each description is in a different assessment book. All of lots 7, 9 and 11 are a part of the Great Northern right of way. Only a part of each lot is leased and the part not leased is not subject to such taxation. As the leased property consists of only a fractional part of each lot, it was not possible to describe it by giving the number of the lot and the other descriptions are too vague. They describe nothing.

It is established by the decisions of this court from its organization that before there can be any valid tax against land there must be a description sufficiently accurate and definite to enable the owner and others to identify it. The descriptions as given in the assessment roll is to be used in all subsequent proceedings. There is no provision for changing the description in order to correct it or make it more certain, and extrinsic evidence is not admissible to show what is meant by the description. A sufficient description is necessary, not alone for the benefit of the owner, it becomes the basis of all further proceedings and future titles. (16 N. D. 123.) Land is not assessed unless it is described with sufficient accuracy for complete identification. The reasoning of Judge Cooley and the authorities cited by him are absolutely conclusive and show that there was no reason for taking this appeal.

In a statutory action like this it is sheer folly for counsel to talk about rules of equity. It is a case of strict law and not of equity. The statute gives the right of action and the form of the complaint. It avers that defendant claims some title or interest in the land adverse to the plaintiff and challenges the defendant to set forth and establish his title or to abandon it. The defendant becomes the plaintiff and tenders the issue and of course the other party must have a right to defend against the claim of title. When the answer and evidence show that a claim is based on a void assessment, tax sale or tax deed, then it must be adjudged void as a matter of law and there is no equity or discretion about it. It is time to cease talking of equity unless when the power of the court is invoked to relieve against some hardship, penalty or forfeiture, or to mitigate some severity of the law.

Judgment affirmed.

CUBA BUYS AMERICAN PAPER

Manufacturers of United States Get Most of Trade Held by Germany Before the War.

Cuba imported $3,800,000 worth of paper in 1916 and American manufacturers furnished over 70 per cent of that total, according to a bulletin issued by Uncle Sam's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce recently. This trade has been growing rapidly in recent months and from all indications has not yet reached its limit.

A large share of the new business and the business formerly going to Germany has come to the United States, but unless unusual care is taken there will be a tendency to return to old sources of supply when the war is over. It is declared.

Spain and Norway are the next most important sources of supply after the United States, as its exports to Cuba consist principally of handmade writing paper and cigarette paper, with which American manufacturers are apparently unable to compete. Norway is an active competitor in newsprint and wrapping paper, and the exports from that country are likely to increase as soon as normal shipping conditions are restored. The trade that Germany formerly had, consisting largely of coated book paper, envelopes, wrapping paper, cardboard, and lithographic goods, amounting to $250,000 a year, has gone principally to the United States, although in lithographic goods England has increased its sales $25,000 since Germany disappeared from the market.

READY FOR REST AND SECLUSION

New York, June 22.—Boudoir attire has become a permanent part of the modern woman's wardrobe. Materials are often quite as choice as those used to build a ball gown. Chiffon and fur and brocade are none too elegant for one splendid loose robe of gorgeous American beauty color.

The average woman finds crepe de chine in some becoming tint the most practical fabric for comfortable and durable negligee.

BIB LOOKS LIKE COLLAR REVERSED

By BETTY BROWN.

This young lady has not put her collar on in front by mistake. She wears it where it belongs with an additional little standing collar at the back of her neck.

The new style bib is what makes the lines of her blouse so confusing to all but students of fashion designing. An extension of the standing collar roll over the bib in a becoming curve.

The semidress hat with its fruit and ribbon trimming shows how completely the latest millinery models cover the hair even to the tips of the ears.

Judge Eickreid was adamant to tears which flowed plentifully from almond-shaped, liquid eyes. Jennie Roe, member of an equally famous family, pleaded not guilty when arraigned on a similar charge, and will be given a hearing Monday. She furnished $100 cash bail.

Salvation Army Band

The Bismarck Salvation Army band of 18 pieces is one of the finest organizations of its kind in the state of North Dakota. The band has made rapid progress since its inception less than a year ago.

Besides playing for all the army meetings it has contributed its services to all the patriotic meetings held in the capital city. Last week the members were given quite an ovation in Jamestown, where they spent two days giving a number of programs.

This evening they will play at the special meeting at the barracks, when Col. Arthur Brewer of Chicago, in charge of the army's young peoples' work, will pay a visit to the Bismarck army.

BACK BEND STRENGTHENS THE MUSCLES OF BACK AND ABDOMEN

By JIM RICE.
One of the most popular—with the physical instructors at any rate—exercises at most of the military camps at the present time is the back bend. This is not what you might call a very thrilling exercise, but it is a great stunt for loosening a man up—that is stretching a number of muscles that are not ordinarily brought into play. Stand with the heels close together. Put your hands on your hips. Then bend backwards as far as you can with your head thrown well back. This exercise is a good test for a man's sense of balance, and is one of the things a man is put through when he applies for enlistment with the flying corps. Unless that part of your make-up that controls your sense of balance is in perfect order you will very likely have some difficulty at first in preventing yourself from toppling over after you have bent over half a dozen times. This exercise stretches the surface muscles of the abdomen, and also places a considerable amount of strain on the muscles of the back. Keep at it night and morning and by the end of two weeks you should be able to bend backwards at least 50 times without becoming tired.

Loonygrams

Heat? They Want It!
Bakersfield, Cal.—It was so hot yesterday at Kern, near here, that oil from one of the big wells there boiled as it came from the ground. As a result boiled oil was barreled instead of mere crude oil, netting the owners a goodly sized sum of added profit. The oil well owners hope for many more hot days.

Tulsa Man Sees One.
Tulsa, Okla.—A giant rattlesnake, striped from head to tail in red, white and blue, was found by Red Jones.

Red told the chief of police he saw the rattler waving from the top of a 20-foot flag pole. He asked the chief to see that such a patriotic reptile be protected from harm. The chief thought Red needed the protection more, so he locked him up.

Must Be New Style.
Atlantic City—Miss Clorine Ghass has entered complaint against some young men she calls beach lizards.

She says they watch her "just like rubbernecks" every time she goes near the water. The police officer to whom the young woman complained asked to see the costume. He told her to apply to the government for a job as a lighthouse and to quit spoiling the eyes of Atlantic City's young men.

Tornado Good To Him.
Mattoon, Ill.—Silas Jenkins has a perfectly good Jersey cow that he didn't use to have. It was blown into his yard by the big tornado and he hasn't found any owner. The cow gives 30 quarts of almost pure cream.

Hudson Maxim, noted inventor, now working on war inventions, loves tennis. Here he is playing on his estate, Maxim park, at Lake Hopatcong, N. J. Maxim doesn't rig out in any fancy togs for his game. He just goes out for comfort as the picture shows.

War Was News to Him.
Bangor, Me.—George Bangs came in to town today from his cabin, 75 miles away and learned there was a war.

on. George hadn't been in town for a year and didn't know the nation had got into a fight. He was so surprised that to steady himself, as he told the judge, he required assistance. The barkeeper who gave him the needed assistance said George had a year's appetite with him, all right.

No Kaiser for Them.
Berlin, Wis.—The mayor of this town used to be called the "kaiser" because of the name of the place. An ordinance has been adopted making it a misdemeanor to refer to the executive in the old way. Berlin folk think the name of the place is bad enough as it is without adding any trimmings.

MENNONITES OFFER TO KNIT

Religion Forbids Them to Fight, but They Want to Show Their Loyalty.

McPherson, Kan.—Women of German descent in McPherson county are planning to set a record in making clothing for the jacks of the United States navy. They are among the best knitters in the state and will turn the heel and toe fast, the trick of which many learned in Germany.

There are in this county 6,000 Mennonites. They believe literally in "Thou shalt not kill." They have sent representatives to Washington to ask that they not be required to bear arms. But they want to show loyalty to the government that has given them religious freedom. They will knit with a prayer for "peace on earth." Three churches are heading the movement.

Lightweight McGann was a boxer bold, Till they asked him to put on a uniform. The boldest of all was he. And fight for his country's fame. He tangled and danced for the glittering gold. "I've a mother, a father, a 19-year-old brother. And he made one-thirty-three.

They never said twice to Lightweight McGann "Will you box for a wad of kale?"

HOLKE, AWKWARD AS RIGHT HANDED BATTER, ADDS 50 POINTS TO AVERAGE AS SOUTHPAW

WALTER HOLKE

By PAUL PURMAN.
A change in batting style made Walter Holke, Giant first baseman, one of the best batters in the National league.

When Holke, a few years ago first donned a Giant uniform at the Marlin training camp he was regarded as a ballplayer who wouldn't do, a man doomed to spend his life in the bushes. Right now Holke couldn't be bought. He's too valuable an asset to the New York club.

The reason is that Holke changed his batting style. At first he batted right-handed and now he bats from the fork side of the plate. The result is that he is a .300 hitter. In his old form he was lucky to hit .250.

At the end of his first training trip McGraw sent Holke north with the second team under the care of Mike Donlin. Donlin paid little attention to the big German who was awkward as a schoolboy at the plate.

One day in an exhibition game Holke batted left-handed. His style was much improved and he had lost his awkwardness.

"You're awful as a right-handed batter," Donlin told him. "But you look all right from the other side of the plate. Try hitting that way."

Holke tried and seemed on the way to the success when McGraw sent him to Rochester.

John Gangel had the Rochester club and didn't think much of the south-

CARSON HERE TO LOWER LAURELS OF KIRK BUNCH

Fast Slope Aggregation Arrives This Afternoon for Games Tonight and Sunday ALL-SALARIED LINE-UP WILL FACE BISMARCK

The Bismarck Champs will cross bats with the fast Carson nine for two games on the local grounds, the first game tonight at 6:15 and the second at 3:30 Sunday afternoon. The Carson club has an all-salaried team. Among the men are Maloney, Mathews and Thompson, three stars who have been in the leagues. Dorfer and Tobin will be remembered as the two lads who worked with Mandan last season. Fischer and Patterson, the two pitchers who are expected to work against the Bismarck team, have both been with the Des Moines club in the Western league. On the whole Carson is recognized as one of the fastest teams in Dakota, and they are already telling how bad they are going to trim the local boys.

Manager Kirk has been in touch with Dutch Dahns, the hard hitting South Dakota boy who made such a wonderful showing against the Champs last year in an exhibition here. Manager Kirk expects to use Dahns at third base, Pike at short, Sid Roth, the youthful second sacker, who is making such a wonderful showing, will remain at the keystone sack, and Frankenhoff, the pepper boy of the team, at first.

With this infield the local fans know that the boys will put up a great exhibition. Williams and Thompson, two Hazelton lads, will work in the outer garden, and these two boys are ball players from the ground up. Big-hearted Chris Christianson, the popular home twirler, will probably pitch tonight's game, and Bill Goldie will take his turn in the Sunday game. Big crowds are promised for both contests with Carson. The Bismarck nine is represented by a snappy, clean and popular club and no doubt they will be given the support due to them.

NEW WAY TO CALL WAITERS

Chicago Restaurant Installs Miniature Lighthouses on Tables for Convenience of Diners.

Chicago.—Have you ever dislocated your neck trying to summon a waiter? Of course you have; but you don't have to any longer if restaurants adopt an idea successfully in use in one of the big ones here.

Miniature lighthouses have been placed on the tables. When the diner wants his waiter he turns a button and a red electric light flashes out of the top. It has been proved in tests that the waiter catches the red glare quicker than the casual beckoning of a diner.

BREAD MAY DECIDE CONFLICT

British Food Expert Says Economic Use of Loaf May Be Determining Factor in War.

London.—Bread instead of bullets may determine the course of the war according to the British food control.

"It is probable that bread and its relative availability and economic use both here and in Germany will prove the determining factor in the war," said Captain Bathurst in a speech at the Royal Society of Arts. He continued: "War bread is almost a complete human food and when combined with butter or margarine it is a complete human food. That cannot be said of the anemic loaf with which we were all too familiar in the pre-war days. We have obtained a bread which possesses muster with our chief staple article, but unfortunately the general public do not even now desire it."

Captain Bathurst said it would be in the public interest to employ all the materials used for beer making in the manufacture of foods.

BAER NOMINATED AS C.O.P. CHOICE BY LEMKE BUNCH

Crossfire Started by Shrewd Chairman of Republican State Central Committee

THREE ACTIONS BOUND TO FOLLOW NEW MOVE

Two Motions to Show Cause Pending, Third Fight Precipitated by "Convention"

A new, startling sensational and most unprecedented development in the first district congressional tie-up came this morning in telephonic advice from William Lemke, chairman of the republican state central committee, to Secretary of state Hall, to the effect that, at a conference of the executive committee held in Fargo yesterday John M. Baer was nominated as the republican candidate for congress in the first district; that a certificate of nomination signed by the executive committee and chairman of the republican state central body would reach Bismarck today, and that the state central committee would insist that Baer, and not Burness, be given a place in the republican column on the official ballot in the first district.

This denouement came fast on the heels of service on the secretary of state of two orders to show cause, first, why the name of Oliver B. Burness, nominated by the district republican convention in Grand Forks should not go on the ballot as the republican nominee; second, why the names of Vick, Plain and Cuthbert should not be withdrawn from the ballot as requested. Both orders were issued by the supreme court this morning, on petition of former Chief Justice Burleigh F. Spalding of Fargo, representing the state, ex rel Burness, and were made returnable Tuesday afternoon. Harry A. Landon, assistant attorney general will argue the case for Langer, as representing Burness. This is in keeping with the policy of sidestepping the final issue adopted by Langer after he had involved the governor in the board of regents fight in which on the eve of battle, he had himself suddenly called away and left the light to subordinates.

The "Convention."—Availing himself of the authority given him as chairman of the republican state central committee, Lemke quietly called a meeting of the executive committee in Fargo yesterday. It is reported that four of those attending were committee men who joined in signing the call for the district convention held in Grand Forks this week. Upon the assembling of the committee men, the usual league program was carried out. Stereotyped resolutions demanding that freedom of speech and of the press be guaranteed without limitation and containing just two new lines pledging the support of the "convention" to the nation in the great war in which it is engaged, were railroaded through. The remaining 11 of the 14 long paragraphs which made up the resolutions were devoted to an eulogy of the league and its congressional candidate, John M. Baer, "whose public activities prove that he is for government of, for and by the people." The dose was too bitter for R. J. Hughes of Wahpeton, who left in the midst of the force. The others remained and are reported to have signed the resolutions.

"Rump Convention."—After the meeting Lemke gave out an interview styling the Grand Forks meeting a "rump convention" called by unauthorized persons and asserting that he, as state chairman, was the only person in the state authorized to call such conventions, and that inasmuch as he had no hand in calling the first convention there was no official convention of first district republicans. "On the other hand," said Lemke, "our executive committee meeting here today represents the authorized machinery of the party, and Mr. Baer, therefore, is the only regular party candidate."

Unheard of Proceedings.—"An unheard of proceeding," Judge Spalding today characterized Lemke's personally conducted, hand picked convention. "We will, of course, fight any effort to gain recognition for a candidate nominated in such a manner," said Mr. Spalding.

The First Umbrella.—The first umbrella in America first appeared on the streets of Baltimore, where it created a great sensation. This importation from India was quickly taken up in Philadelphia and New York.

LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN WAS INSPIRATIONAL

Response of Burleigh County People Declared Highly Gratifying by Chairman

BOY SCOUT WAS FIRST
BISMARCK SUBSCRIBER

OVER THREE BILLION.
Washington, June 23.—Final Liberty Loan tabulations show today that $3,035,226,850 was subscribed, nearly 52 per cent more than was required. Bonds were bought by more than four million people. About 3,950,000 subscribed for amounts between $50 and $100,000, and to these purchasers bonds for the full amount ordered will be delivered. The 40,000 for larger bonds will receive allotments ranging from 50 per cent of the subscriptions, between $10,000 and $100,000, to 20 per cent of the larger subscriptions.

The Northwest has subscribed for $16,495,850 more of the Liberty loan than it will actually get. The Minneapolis reserve district will get $53,759,250, in the actual allotment of bonds. Although the district subscribed for $70,255,100, as figures slightly revised show, there will be $16,495,850 subscribed that will not be filled.

The Liberty Loan campaign in Burleigh county was a real inspiration, said J. L. Bell, county chairman, today, in reviewing the effort which brought forth subscriptions $30,000 in excess of Burleigh's original allotment of $63,000. The first Liberty bond in Bismarck was purchased by Kenneth Treacy, son of Dr. R. H. Treacy, and a leader among the capital city boy scouts. Bright and early on the first day of the campaign, Master Treacy reported at his bank. He was there before the doors opened, and the first bit of business transacted that day was the sale of his Liberty bonds, for which he insisted upon paying wholly in cash.

Foley Wires Order.—Another early order came from California, wired by James W. Foley, North Dakota's poet laureate. Another man sent in a subscription for his daughter on her first month's birthday. Many purchases were made for infants and minors, to whom the semi-annual clipping of Liberty bond coupons will prove a patriotic inspiration for many years to come.

The Boy Scouts' campaign was especially noteworthy, Mr. Bell states. All of the Scouts did good work, and Warren Taylor and Kenneth Treacy made a remarkably fine showing.

Brings Out Hidden Stores.—"While the campaign has taken some money out of the country, temporarily, it also has resulted in bringing out much hidden wealth," said Mr. Bell. "Much of the funds applied to individual bond purposes had all the appearances of having been out of circulation for a long time." On the 10 per cent basis of capital and surplus, of county banks first allotted to Burleigh by Chairman L. B. Hanna, Burleigh's quota was $63,000. Bismarck alone subscribed for $76,000 worth of bonds, and the county's total was in excess of $90,000.
